PREPARING CHILDREN FOR KINDERGARTEN

The Grantee and its delegate agency assessed each child’s school readiness with either the Child Observation Record (COR) Advantage or Teaching Strategies Gold (TSG). Both COR Advantage and TSG are aligned with the Ohio Early Learning and Development Standards and allow teachers to intentionally plan for children in their classrooms.

The Centers for Families and Children had four check points during 2019-2020 to gather and analyze ongoing assessment data on children’s performances. During the 2019-2020 school year, the ongoing assessment data was collected for only two of four checkpoints due to COVID-19 pandemic. At the end of the second checkpoint, the data was analyzed by age group, center/class and individual levels. Overall, average ongoing assessment ratings at end of second check point showed that all age groups progressed toward school readiness.
Based upon benchmark reports, over 76% of four-year old children met and/or exceeded the expectations at that point in time. Among three year-old children, 59% of children showed progress that met and/or exceeded expectations, while 63% of infants and toddlers showed progress that met and/or exceeded expectations. Among four-year olds, the area with highest percentage of children who showed progress was Social Studies, among three-year olds it was Approaches To Learning and among infants and toddlers, it was Social Studies. On the other hand, the assessment area with the with smallest margin of progress among four-year old children, was in Creative Arts, among three-year old children, it was Social Emotional Development, and among infants/toddlers, it was Physical Development and Health.
